

Arbane Audio NESS

Arbane Groupe will again be exhibiting at the JTSE trade fair in Paris (22-23 November, Dock Pullman, stand #094). Amongst the latest products and solutions from the French audio manufacturer brands APG and Active Audio, one show highlight will undoubtedly be APG's NESS, the industry's first-ever 100% free spatialisation software developed by a manufacturer. JTSE visitors will get a unique chance to discover the benefits of NESS first-hand before the solution is presented to a wider international audience at next year's ISE.

Available to download from the new-look Arbane Groupe website, NESS enables entertainment and corporate venue operators, including bars and nightclubs, theatres and conference rooms, to enter the world of immersive sound.

With NESS, APG aims to offer a robust, reliable spatialisation solution based on established, proven audio algorithms and principles. APG's ambition is to create a thriving community of users around this software in order to tailor its development towards customer needs and expectations. APG will be holding regular NESS presentations by Damien Jacquet, R&D engineer for Arbane Groupe and NESS developer.

NESS will also be a great platform to experience the even coverage offered by APG loudspeakers, and in particular the popular iX range. A number of products from both APG and Active Audio will be presented on the Arbane stand. For APG, these include SPOT2.6, its passive full-range compact loudspeaker with 2 x 6.5" drivers and high directivity control, and the DA range of four-channel live touring amplifiers,
