

Koil Corporation is the new HH Electronics distributor in South Korea

HH Electronics, UK-based manufacturer of audio systems for the pro, MI and installed markets, and part of the Headstock Group of companies, is pleased to announce the appointment of Koil Corporation as its official distribution partner in South Korea. Koil will work closely with both HH and Generation AV, HH's appointed sales agency in the region.

Koil's President, Ms Jo Mi Jung, is enthusiastic about the new partnership: "Koil Corporation is thrilled to work with HH Electronics, a company with long history and clear passion for the audio industry. HH Electronics' product line-ups will be optimal choice not only for our sales channels but also for end-users."

Ian Wright, Headstock's Director of Global Sales agrees: "We're very happy to be embarking on this exciting new partnership with Koil, and look forward to seeing the HH brand continue to grow and thrive within the region. As a highly professional, well-respected company with a very talented and experienced team, Koil is the perfect partner for HH in Korea. We look forward to building a strong, long-term relationship with them."

James Laney, Headstock CEO, added: "We are delighted to be working with Koil. We share a mutual goal to fulfil the potential for HH products in Korea, and look forward to a long and successful partnership."

HH Electronics Appoints Koil Corporation as Distributor in South Korea

Tuesday, 01 November 2022 15:00

After more than fifty years in the industry, HH Electronics continues to design and create high-quality, competitively-priced audio products which meet the demands of a wide range of vertical markets across the globe.

www.hhelectronics.com

www.koil.co.kr

www.generationav.net