

Kyle Watson New HH Audio Product Manager

HH Audio, UK-based manufacturer of audio systems for the pro, MI and installed markets, and part of the Headstock Group of companies, announces the appointment of Kyle Watson to the post of Product Manager. Kyle has been a member of the Headstock family for more than a year, having worked as an After-Sales & Service Coordinator across the group's brands. Prior to that he gained valuable sales experience at PMT's Birmingham store.

Kyle graduated from Leeds College of Music with Bachelor's and Master's degrees in Music Production, and is an accomplished guitarist, involved in several ongoing professional projects. His understanding of the audio sector from the perspective of both manufacturer and end-user makes Kyle a valuable asset to HH Audio according to Director of International Sales Ian Wright: "Kyle's skills and experience, combined with a keen interest in the development of audio technology, mark him out as an excellent candidate for his new role. He's a strong communicator with a ready feel for the needs of the market who understands exactly how our products and our business work."

Visitors to this year's edition of ISE in Barcelona can meet Kyle on HH's Booth 7L760 where he will be part of the team introducing a number of new products to the market. He comments: "I'm very much looking forward to the new challenge and certainly expect to hit the ground running at ISE! The role of Product Manager at HH aligns perfectly with my areas of interest in the audio industry, and I see it as a real opportunity to develop my ideas in a fast-moving and competitive sector."
